

NMMRA Recognizes Medicare-certified Home Health Agencies For Their Achievements in Improving Quality Measures at 2007 NMAHHC Annual Conference

The New Mexico Medical Review Association (NMMRA) recognized New Mexico home health agencies for their success in improving quality measures at the 2007 Annual Conference of the New Mexico Association for Home and Hospice Care (NMAHHC). During an awards luncheon at the annual conference, Dan Jaco, NMMRA chief executive officer and Deborah Armstrong, cabinet secretary of the New Mexico Aging and Long-Term Services Department presented awards to agencies that were recognized for their achievement in improving quality measures.

NMMRA recognized Zuni Home Health Care Agency and Plains Regional Medical Center Home Health for their success in addressing the statewide measure, improvement in pain interfering with activity. NMMRA recognized the accomplishments of home health identified participants in the following categories:

- Presbyterian Home Healthcare - Success in Implementation of Telehealth
- University Terrace Home Health Care and Española Home Health - Improvement in Reducing Avoidable Hospitalizations
- Heritage Home Health - Sustained Success in Reducing Avoidable Hospitalizations
- Memorial Home Health and Truth or Consequences Ambercare Home Health - Systems Improvement
- Basin Home Health and San Juan Home Health Care - Improvement in Agency-selected Quality Measures